

1st Sem. Lit Terms

Across

6. "Her lips were red like the roses" is an example of this.
 8. Repetition of the same sound at the beginning of the word is this
 9. Moving with your Auntie and your Uncle in Bel Air, if it happened at the very end of your story, would be this.
 12. A drunk man or an insane person would be this type of storyteller

13. Not always the bad guy, but the force working against the main character is this.

Down

1. In West Philadelphia, born and raised.... this is an example of what at the beginning of a story
 2. Clues as to what will happen in the future is known as this
 3. Colors, used to set the mood and represent larger ideas, are commonly used as this
 4. The wind whispering in my ear would be an example of this device.
 5. If your narrator is credible, they are known as this.
 7. Harry Potter is the _____ of his book series.
 10. "Her lips were roses" is an example of this lit device.
 11. Getting into a fight with a couple of guys who were up to no good who started making trouble in your neighborhood - if this was the most exciting part of your story it would be the