

Adaptations

Across

- 2. Involves some part of an animal's body (example: teeth, body coverings, and shape of body part).
4. Anything that helps an organism survive in its environment.
8. An advantageous trait that benefits an organism and allows it to leave more offsprings.
9. Includes activities that help an animal survive and it can be learned or instinctive.
10. Allows one animal to look, sound, or act like another animal to trick predators into thinking its poisonous or dangerous.

Word Bank

Heritable

Structural Adaptation

Behavioral Adaptations

Adaptation

Protective Coloration

Migration

Hibernation

Mimicry

Natural Selection

Adaptation

Down

- 1. Allows an animal to blend into its environment.
3. Traits that are determined by genes are...
5. A deep sleep in which a animal's body temperature drops, and the body activity is slowed down to conserve energy.
6. A structural (physical) change in DNA or behavior that helps a living thing survive and reproduce in its environment.
7. A behavioral adaptation that involves an animal or group of animals moving from one area to another then back again.