

Name: _____

Approaches

Across

2. wundt first used this method
3. in the cognitive approach psychologists believe that the human mind works similar to a what?
4. which type of defence mechanism is when a threatening thought is ignored?
8. Psychologists believing we process information from our senses is part of which approach
9. Which researcher developed the Social Learning Theory
14. how many psychosexual stages are there
15. which approach attempts to explain behaviour in terms of learning.
16. what type of reinforcement occurs when learners observe role models

17. _____ psychology focuses on providing therapeutic treatments
 18. organs and systems that influence human behaviour are types of what?
 19. genes are segments of DNA which code for what features
 21. this type of conditioning was investigated by Skinner
 22. this type of conditioning was discovered by Pavlov
- ## Down
1. biological psychologists believe that behaviour can be _____, as it is determined by genetic information
 5. internal mental processes are also known as what type of processes
 6. are defence mechanisms conscious or unconscious

7. which psychologist explained that traumatic childhood experiences can lead to psychological disorders in the psychodynamic approach?
10. congruence is a term used by which humanistic psychologist
11. where was the first psychology lab opened
12. _____ and computer models are used by cognitive psychologists to study mental processes
13. _____ refers to gradual changes in an inherited characteristic
20. cognitive framework that help us interpret and organise information