

Classroom Management

Across

5. a result of something a person does.

Down

1. Having eyes in the back of your head

2. The amount of time students are successful while engaged in learning activities.

3. The ability to direct and control our actions and emotions.

4. to force him or her to do what one wants.

6. Is an approach to classroom management developed

7. Deliberate infliction of pain in response to misbehavior.

8. The amount of time left for teaching after routine management and administrative tasks are completed.

9. allotment of time that has been used within different activities and specific exercises.

10. Bullying that takes place using electronic technology.

11. the portion of instructional time that students spend directly involved in learning activities.

12. An established or official way of doing something.