

CP1 Worksheet

Across

2. Fragmentation of megakaryocytes creates this formed element that is important for hemostasis
 6. Oxygen therapy device that should be chosen when SpO2 is 81%
 9. Medical term for coughing up blood
 10. When $V/Q = \infty$ it is absolute _____.

12. Blood clot formation often in the legs that can result from pregnancy or sitting for extended periods of time
 13. Hypocapnia alone will lead to a respiratory _____
 14. V/Q would be (increased/normal/decreased) with pulmonary embolism

Down

1. Thoracic imaging technique used as the gold standard to identify a pulmonary embolism by visualizing the blood vessels of the pulmonary circulation

3. Respiratory rate greater than 20 breaths/min
 4. Physiological mechanism that dissolves clots
 5. Heart rate greater than 100 beats/min
 7. Swelling of the ankles and/or feet
 8. Hemodynamic value representing right heart pressure which will be elevated with a PE
 11. Patient's sensation of feeling short of breath