

Chapter 2 Lab Crossword by Tina R. Young

Across

8. Any drug that affects behavior, mood, thoughts, or perception.

9. The situation where a drug, procedure, or surgery should not be used because it may be harmful to the person.

10. The study of how genes affect a person's response to drugs

Down

1. The field of science which helps us understand the harmful effects that chemicals, substances, or situations, can have on people, animals, and the environment.

2. When you use information about a person's genetic makeup to choose the drugs that are likely to work the best for that particular person.

3. The knowledge of new medications needed for hard-to-treat or rare illnesses and the effects of the use of the drugs.

4. The part of pharmacology that includes the absorption, distribution, metabolism and excretion of drugs.

5. A physician's order for the preparation and administration of a drug or device for a patient.

6. The field of solving chemical problems with the use of computer and information science.

7. The branch of medicine concerned with the interaction of a drug and how it can affect cells, tissues, and organs in the body.