

Name: _____

Date: _____

Chapter 2 vocab Cross word

Across

6. Images, video, audio, and Java applets embedded in an HTML document.

7. A database system where objects, such as text and images, can be linked.

11. A set of declarations that can be applied to different tags.

12. A list that is used to show a priority of importance.

13. A line in a browser window for dividing content.

14. Comprised of an element inside angle brackets that is used to "mark up" plain text so that a browser application knows how to display the text.

17. The html, head, title, and body tags.

19. The HTML element being redefined in a style sheet rule.

21. Used to specify custom values to use in a Java applet.

22. Used to add dynamic content to an HTML document. Scripts are written in a scripting language, such as JavaScript.

23. A style sheet defined with <style> and </style> tags in the head section of an HTML document.

24. A set of tags that are used to "mark up" plain text so that a browser application knows how to display the text.

25. The formats to be applied in a style sheet rule.

Down

1. Used to modify the features of an element in an HTML tag.

2. A small Java application that is embedded in an HTML document and run in a browser window.

3. Text that can be clicked to display another HTML document. Also called a link.

4. A scripting language that is interpreted by a browser's built-in JavaScript engine.

5. A style sheet saved as a separate file with a .css extension and applied using a <link> tag.

8. The part of an HTML tag placed inside angle brackets (<>).

9. Used to define the type, paragraph, and page formats for an HTML document.

10. A base-16 numbering system that consists of the numbers 0 through 9 and the letters A through F.

15. Text used to explain and clarify HTML for a reader.

16. A list that is used when each item is equally important

18. Spaces and blank lines generally have no effect on how the document is interpreted. The format of an HTML document.

20. Used to arrange data in an HTML document.