Name: _____ Date: _____

Chapter 3

1. Raw facts and figures.

2. Data that has been turned into something meaningful.

3. Data that has been extracted from individual health records and combined to form deidentified information to compare and analyze.

4. Permanent record of all patients treated at a healthcare facility.

5. Basic information about patient such as name, address, date of birth and insurance information.

6. Links patient's information at different facilities.

7. Results when patient has two ore more health record numbers issued.

8. Patient is assigned into another person's health record. Ex. Common names or birthday

9. When a patient has more than one health record at different locations in an enterprise.

10. Monitoring the quality of the documentation.

A. Duplicate

B. Overlap

C. Information

D. Data

E. Aggregate Data

F. Overlay

G. Demographics

H. EMPI

I. Master Patient Index

J. Qualitative Analysis