

Chapter 5: Infancy

Across

2. This reflex is when the baby turns his head and opens his mouth when his cheek is touched.
 4. The distress of being with an unfamiliar person.
 5. The understanding that people and objects still exist when they are out of sight is object _____.
 12. Distress a baby feels when her parents leave.
 13. This type of play occurs when an infant plays alone.
 14. Baby moves using hands and knees while the stomach is raised off the ground.
 15. The emotional connection that a parent develops with the baby.

16. Type of development where control of core muscles develops before extremities.

18. The time from birth to one month of age.
 20. Type of development where babies develop from the head downward to extremities.

Down

1. The period from birth to the first birthday.
 3. The first 6 weeks after birth when mom experiences a lot of adjustments.
 6. A thin white protective coating on baby at birth.
 7. Baby moves by using arms and shoulders with stomach dragging on the ground.

8. Piaget's first stage of cognitive development

9. This grasp is used when baby scrapes up an object into the palm of their hands.

10. This type of play involves simply observing and focusing on an object.

11. Babies use this grasp when picking up small items with the forefinger and thumb.

17. This type of language is used when a baby can understand language before they can form words.

19. A scale used to evaluate the health of a newborn 1 and 5 minutes after birth.