

Complications of Pregnancy

Across

2. Term for premature separation of the placenta from the uterine wall
 4. This is a cardinal symptom of preeclampsia
 6. Term for placental implantation close to or covering the cervix
 7. Streptococcal pharyngitis often precedes this type of heart disease
 9. Pain associated with this type of anemia may mask other pregnancy complications
 14. This "type" of abortion is characterized by cervical dilation & rupture of membranes
 15. Raw meat, eggs, & dairy products, as well as cat feces, can all carry this risk
 17. This type of transmission occurs when organisms ascend after ROM or through fetal contact at birth
 18. Persistent, uncontrollable vomiting that requires intervention to prevent serious complications

19. This is often the first sign of a threatened abortion

20. Term for destruction of fetal erythrocytes
 21. This chemotherapy drug is used to manage an unruptured ectopic pregnancy
 23. This medication may prevent transmission of HIV to the fetus during pregnancy
 24. This syndrome is characterized by slow growth, CNS disorders, cognitive impairment, & craniofacial anomalies
- Down
1. Potential complications of this disease process include maternal ketoacidosis, preeclampsia, & UTIs, as well as neonatal hypoglycemia, macrosomia, & respiratory distress syndrome
 3. Women colonized with GBS can expect this treatment during labor

5. The nurse would be on alert for this newborn condition as a result of ABO/Rh incompatibility

8. Infections, drugs, pollutants, radiation, & other disruptions to the fetal environment are examples of...
 10. This maternal position improves placental blood flow
 11. In this FDA classification, there is no evidence of risk to the fetus
 12. This type of hemorrhage is pocketed behind the placenta
 13. Victims of this type of violence often demonstrate embarrassment, guilt, & hesitation in addition to various injuries in different stages of healing
 16. Deficiency in this nutrient often results in neural tube defects
 22. This medication is administered to Rh (-) mothers