Computer Terminology. :)

Across

2. A global computer network providing a variety of information and communication facilities, consisting of interconnected networks using standardized communication protocols.

4. An electronic device for and processing data, typically in binary form, according to instructions given to it in a variable program.

5. A type of computer memory that can be accessed randomly.

7. An information system on he internet that allows documents to be connected to other documents by hypertext links , enabling the user to search for information by moving from one document to another.

9. The power, energy, or other result supplied by a device or system.

10. the study of people's efficiency in their working environment.

Down

1. the retention of retrievable data on a computer or other electronic system; memory.

3. operate on (computer data) by means of a program.

6. Read only memory;A medium that is used with computers,

8. the information fed into a computer or computer program.