

Name: _____

Date: _____

Cybersecurity - Anti-Malware

Across

4. software that prevents users from accessing certain websites or content

7. an altered piece of code which cannot be found using signature detection

9. a piece of malicious software that spreads over network

10. software which hides inside a program, allowing access to the system

12. monitors a systems activity and classifying it as normal or anomalous

15. type of software designed to prevent malicious software from damaging a system

16. analysed code is flagged as harmful when it is actually safe

17. piece of code is executed in an area isolated from main system

18. analysed code is flagged as safe when it is actually harmful

Down

1. malicious software which aims to gather information on the victim

2. evaluates a programs intended actions before it can execute them

3. registers viruses as signatures and stores them in a database.

5. isolates dangerous programs from the main system

6. used to hide/protect malicious software when it's on a system

8. locks user out of computer and demands money for it to be unlocked

11. compares a programs design to a list of predefined principles in order to check if the program is following them

13. malicious software that displays advertisements on users computer

14. patches are released and exploited by hackers