

Diseases and Conditions

Across

3. disorder most often present at birth that permanently affects the body's movement and muscle coordination that does not worsen overtime and is most commonly classified as spastic

6. severe acute inflammation of the brain parenchyma resulting in cerebral edema

9. noncontagious febrile, self-limited disorder of an unknown cause with a common side effect of "strawberry tongue" and risk factors males under 5 years old and Asian decent

13. abnormal absence or suppression of menstruation

15. pediatric emergency in which a portion of the bowel telescopes or folds into an adjacent bowel portion

16. severe, acute atopic reaction to an allergen with rapidly progressive respiratory distress

17. most common abdominal surgical disease in children due to inflammation of the blind sac at the end of the cecum

18. communicable, opportunistic lung infection that is commonly associated with immunocompromised patients

19. bacterial infection of the bladder and urethra that is often caused by Escherichia coli

20. congenital hemolytic disease that results from a defective hemoglobin molecule that causes misshapen red blood cells

Down

1. acute infection of the dermis and subcutaneous tissue causing cell inflammation

2. chronic, progressive incurable genetic disorder that affects mucous-secreting glands and is diagnosed with genetic testing and sweat tests

4. a combination of 4 cardiac defects that often require multiple surgeries

5. inflammation of the stomach and/or small intestine resulting in abdominal cramping, vomiting and diarrhea

7. acute or chronic inflammatory process of the bone and its structures that occur secondary to an infection

8. most common cause of sepsis in a newborn with antibiotics started immediately

10. neurological condition when two or more unprovoked seizures occur more than 24 hours apart

11. severe inflammation of the upper airway affecting the larynx, trachea, and bronchi with 75% of cases caused by parainfluenza virus

12. abdominal opening in the diaphragm that allows the abdominal contents into the thoracic cavity

14. chronic reactive airway disorder involving episodic, reversible airway obstruction resulting from bronchospasms