

Drugs

Across

2. A category of drugs that are used to relieve pain.

6. A type of drug commonly used to fight bacterial infections

10. A highly addictive synthetic drug.

11. A category of drug that, in large quantities, blunt the senses and produce euphoria, stupor or even coma or death. They are commonly used to relieve/escape pain.

13. This category of drug have the ability to distort how a person sees, hears, feels, tastes and smells.

14. This drug is derived from the opium poppy, is highly addictive and illegal. A derivative of it, morphine, is used as a powerful painkiller in hospitals.

15. This category of illegal substances is completely man made. One variety of it is the highly addictive drug called "Ice".

16. This category of drug effects the nervous system, increasing heart rate and causing the user to feel more alert and nervous.

Down

1. In Australia, this drug can legally be consumed by those over the age of 18.

3. This hallucinogen is legal in some countries but remains illegal in Australia.

4. A synthetic (man made) derivative of testosterone, sometimes used by athletes to increase muscle size.

5. The active drug found in drinks such as coffee and tea.

7. A type of drug that is often used to 'lift' mood or decrease appetite.

8. The addictive drug in cigarettes.

9. This category of drug effects the nervous system, causing neurons to fire more slowly. Users may feel more calm, tired or sleepy. They will have a slower heart rate and slower reaction time.

12. This illicit drug is obtained from the leaf of the coca plant and is also used as a local anesthetic.