

Early Cold War

Across

- 5. After WWII, this policy was made by the US, utilizing different strategies to prevent the spread of communism from the USSR.
- 7. The United States 33rd president, that ordered the famous supply run/drop via aircraft in the city of Berlin. He also made a doctrine to help resist communism in Europe.
- 8. The leader of the USSR, creator of the "Iron Curtain", that had a grudge against the US for supporting free elections (democracy), and using US money to rebuild Europe after WWII.
- 9. The attempt by the US and Britain to fly over Berlin and drop supplies after the USSR blockades the city.
- 10. This was the treaty made between the Soviet Union and it's 7 satellite nations for protection due to the creation of NATO.

Down

- 1. These are the nations under Soviet control and influence, that are typically bordering the USSR.
- 2. The American policy, created by the United States president after WWII to resist the spread of Communism from the Soviet Union. It provided American support for other countries that were threatened by Soviet communism.
- 3. This was the policy created to financially aid Europe in rebuilding everything damaged or destroyed after WWII. Stalin did not like this policy, which led to the Berlin blockade.
- 4. A replacement for The League of Nations, this was the organization created to help ensure security and peace in Europe, especially during the Cold War.
- 6. This was the treaty created between the main nations of the world (US, Britain, France, etc.) to provide military security and assistance in case of a conflict with the USSR.