

Name: _____ Date: _____ Period: _____

Elements of Poetry

Across

2. The repetition of vowel sounds in stressed syllables that do not rhyme
 4. A type of literature that uses sounds, rhythms, and meanings of words to describe the word in striking and imaginative ways.
 6. When a poet changes one or more words in each repetition.
 14. Four-lined stanza
 15. The person or character who communicates the words of the poem.
 16. Lines or group of lines that are repeated at regular intervals in a poem or song

18. A measurement or units of stressed and unstressed syllables

19. A blank line that signals that one stanza has ended and a new stanza is beginning

20. The way the words and lines are arranged

21. The use of words that imitate sounds

Down

1. A particular pattern or rhyme.
 Example: abab

3. A pattern of rhythm

5. The use of any element of language-a sound, word, or phrase-more than once

7. A beat created by the stressed and unstressed syllables in words

8. The repetition of consonant sounds in stressed syllables with different vowel sounds

9. The repetition of consonant sounds in words, as in slippery slop

10. Two-Lined stanza

11. Lines that are organized units of meaning

12. Poetry divided into groups of words

13. Repetition of vowel and consonant sounds at the ends of words

17. Three-lined stanza

Word Bank

Poetry

Rhythm

Assonance

Repetition

Variations

Refrain

Structure

Stanzas

Couplet

Rhyme

Quatrain

Meter

Consonance

Onomatopoeia

Rhyme Scheme

Feet

Tercet

Stanza Break

Alliteration

Speaker

Lines