

Name: _____

End of the Year at The Writing Center!

Across

- 2. A boy with toys who makes a lot of noise--and looks just like Brittany!
- 5. You don't want to get one of these while driving, but you do want these in your paper.
- 8. We waited and waited for the writer to come.
- 10. It's how we celebrate the end of every quarter.
- 12. She doesn't have an appointment, but this writer would like your help.
- 13. Danica played a part in taming this beast.

14. This consultant is off to the U of W next fall!

15. A published author of children's tales in our midst.

17. We can show you how, but we won't do this for you.

20. Journal of writing center scholarship.

Down

1. The main point, the big "so what," the claim, the assertion, the reasoned opinion

3. Extra points for these students to visit the center these last two weeks.

4. A young novelist born of an English teacher.

6. A river, a shoe, a writing consultant, too!

7. She's now a published poet, don't you know it!

9. He wants help with the kind of sentences that just won't stop.

11. Not a Glaspell or a B. Anthony but a shared moniker nonetheless.

16. Not E or English or Eng on the consultation form.

18. Has feathers and binocular vision, and it can deliver drafts.

19. The only thing in the Writing Center with a running head.