

Name: _____

Date: _____

Ethics Terms

Across

7. a general term that includes all products of the human mind

11. an intentional or negligent action taken by a legal entity that causes harm to another legal entity

12. contract that the user must accept before installing the software

13. whether an individual has the authority to commit a company to an online contract

14. a promise or set of promises between two or more legal entities that provides for an exchange of value between or among them

15. registering domain names in the hope of selling them later at a higher price

Down

1. failure to comply with a contract

2. a law that specified the types of contracts that had to be in writing and signed

3. The body of law derived from judicial decisions, rather than from statutes or constitutions. Also called caselaw.

4. jurisdiction determined by the residence of the parties

5. formed by two or more parties that act as if a contract exists, even if no contract has been written and signed

6. an electronic version of physical watermarks placed on paper currency to prevent counterfeiting

8. the seller unintentionally provides a harmful product

9. a statement declaring that the seller will not honor some or all implied warranties

10. the expression of willingness to take an offer, including all of its stated terms