HIM Functions in an Electronic Environment

Across

2. Assigning codes to represent diagnoses and procedures.

3. Commonly used when transitioning from paper-based to an electronic health record

4. Uses EHR data to assign the codes.

7. Uses the codes assigned to determine the diagnosis-related group or other grouping.

8. Extracting information from a document to create a brief summary of a patients illness, treatment, outcome, etc.

9. Technology when a computer captures the dictation and converts what is said directly into text.

10. Technology that converts human language into data that can be translated.

Down

1. Assists physicians and other users when making decisions regarding medications, diagnoses, and such based on the information entered into the EHR.

5. A database on specific diseases and procedures.

6. The time between receipt of request and when the request is sent to requester.