Internet Safety

Across

4. To upload information to the Web

5. An online discussion group, much like a chat room

9. To send information from your computer to another computer

12. A method of sending short messages (also called SMSes, txts, or text messaging) between mobile phones and other computer-enabled devices

13. Some data stored on a computer

14. A secret word or number that must be used to gain access to an online service or to modify software

15. information, stored on computers and other storage devices

Down

1. tells your email program where to send messages

2. Any unsolicited e-mail, or junk mail

3. A hypertext-based navigation system on the Internet that lets you browse through a variety of linked resources, using typed commands or clicking on hot links

6. Bullying behaviour which takes places through the use of electronic means, such as through e-mail, mobile phones or posts on a social network

7. Online communities, also known as social networks, where people share information about themselves, music files, photos, etc

8. The name a user selects to be identified on a computer, on a network, or in an online gaming forum

10. A piece of information about your visit to a website that some websites record automatically on your computer

11. people who gain unauthorized access to data, remotely, using a computer or mobile device