Journalism

Across

2. Human interest news stories such as entertainment stories, features, reviews and more.

3. Breaking news stories that contain timely and relevant information.

6. The continuation line of a story that appears at the end of the story on a page that directs the reader to the rest of the story on another page.

9. The design and position of the story, advertisements, pictures and more in the paper

14. A brief description under the photo that explains what is happening in the photo.

16. This is a term referring to publications that are printed instead of published electronically.

17. A recurring opinion-based article.

19. The section of the newspaper that contains stories related to entertainment.

20. An article n a newspaper or other periodical that presents the opinions of the newspaper , publisher, editor, or editors.

Down

1. A line of test that is smaller than the headline. It contains a more detailed description of the story than the headline.

4. The first page of the newspaper. It contains the most newsworthy and relevant news.

5. This section of the news story contains stories and news related to business.

7. This section of the newspaper contains stories and news related to sports.

8. The top of the newspaper that includes general information about the newspaper.

10. Text formatted in a large type setting that summarizes the story and grabs the reader's attention.

11. This section of the newspaper contains stories relevant to the city or town in which the newspaper is published.

12. A line indicating who wrote the story.

13. A line of text that states where the story was physically written.

15. This abbreviation refers to the opinions and editorials page in the newspaper.

18. The first sentence, or the beginning, of a story.

Word Bank

print news	caption	front page	local section
dateline	jumpline	Column	entertainment section
byline	sports section	business section	hard news
headline	op/ed	subheading	Soft news
masthead	editorial	layout	lead