Language Arts Review

Across

2. This fictional genre contains facts, people, or events from history, but the story is mostly untrue.

5. This type of essay attempts to persuade the audience.

6. In this type of irony, a character says something but means the opposite.

9. Ex) My backpack weighs a ton!

13. This type of character does not have many character traits.

14. The way the conflict is solved.

15. This type of character has a well-developed personality.

18. This type of character stays the same throughout a text.

19. A type of third person point of view in which only one or two characters' thoughts are revealed.

20. The most exciting point in a story in which the main character faces the conflict

21. This type of folklore often begins with "Once Upon A Time."

23. Where and when a story takes place

25. A type of third person point of view in which all characters' thoughts are revealed.

26. A type of third person point of view in which no one's thoughts are revealed.

27. The narrator in the story talks to the audience or gives instructions.

28. Ex) I'll be there in a second.

Down

1. Ex) The boy grabbed his bag and snuck out of the room as swiftly as a fox.

3. Ex) He is so smart that we nicknamed him Einstein.

4. A true story about a person's life written by someone else is a...

7. This type of character changes over the course of a text.

8. Ex) The sun smiled over the valley as the wind danced through the trees.

10. Ex) Tiny Tina tasted a tangy tangerine.

11. This fictional genre is composed of stories about aliens, futuristic technology, or space travels.

12. In this type of irony, the audience knows something that the characters do not know.

16. People or animals in a story

17. In this type of irony, something happens that is the opposite of what is expected.

22. The narrator is a character in the story (I, me, we)

24. The problem in a story