

Laws on Cybercrime

Across

6. A measure used to reduce the probability of a threat source successfully accomplishing a goal

8. This act form part of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act and addresses voluntary and compelled disclosure of "stored wire and electronic communications and Transactional records" help by third-party ISPs.

9. This regulates the collection of actual content of wire and electronic communication.

11. This theory is where cybercrime is a conscious decision to reap its benefits and cost-benefit analysis is employed

Down

1. This results from deliberate conduct.

2. The elements of this theory consists of a likely offender, suitable target, and the absence of a capable guardian.

3. This theory is based on cybercrime being a product of low self-control as well as analogous to other deviant behaviors

4. A measure taken to protect something or to prevent something undesirable from happening

5. This Act does not explicitly legitimize email spam.

7. The statute now makes the possession of any "means of identification" to "knowingly transfer, possess, or use without lawful authority" a federal crime, alongside unlawful possession of identification documents.

10. This included provisions dedicated to the protection of consumer financial information help by banks, securities firms, insurance companies and other financial institutions.