

Literary Terms

Across

3. ordinary speech or writing
 4. a comparison between two unlike things saying one thing is something else
 5. giving human characteristics to something that is not human
 8. figures of speech; the use of literary devices like simile, metaphor, personification, and so on
 12. the overall feeling a reader gets when reading a work of literature
 14. extreme exaggeration to make a point
 16. the repetition of the same or similar vowel and consonant sounds, usually at the ends of words
 17. a word or phrase which means something different from its literal meaning

19. when an object, word, or idea represents something even more meaningful
 20. the organization of lines in a poem; this is thought of as a paragraph in a poem
 22. the repeated occurrence of sounds, words, or lines in a poem; adds rhythm, interest, and emphasis to ideas
 24. the message lesson or moral of a literary work

Down

1. the repetition of consonant sounds at the beginnings of words
 2. the repetition of consonant sounds within words
 6. a play on words; typically by using words that sound the same but have different meanings

7. words that mimic sound
 9. the repetition of vowels inside of words
 10. a reference to a well-known event or person from history, literature, or the Bible
 11. a type of literature that expresses ideas and feelings in compact, imaginative, and musical language
 13. the writer's attitude toward the subject he or she is writing about
 15. a consistent pattern of rhyme found in a stanza or poem; this repetition is found most often at the end of poem
 18. sensory details that create a picture in the reader's head
 21. when an author uses "like" or "as" to create a comparison between two things
 23. the opposite of what is expected occurs