

Literary Terms

Across

- 1. type of word that combines two independent ideas into one sentence; hint: think FANBOYS
- 3. type of sentence that always ends with "!"
- 11. incomplete thought
- 13. figurative language that is an extreme exaggeration
- 14. figurative language that compares two unlike things using "like" or "as"
- 16. figurative language that gives human qualities to nonhuman things

- 17. type of sentence that is a command or request; ex. Do your homework.
 - 18. what's being talked about in a sentence; always a noun
- Down
- 2. action of a sentence; always includes a verb
 - 4. author's attitude toward the subject; an emotional adjective
 - 5. type of sentence that simply provides information
 - 6. what a singular noun turns into when adding -s or -es

- 7. type of sentence that ends with "?"; hint: the answer is not "question"!
- 8. specific person, place, thing, or idea; ex. John Hanson Middle School
- 9. comparing two unlike things as if they are the same
- 10. everyday/ordinary person, place, thing, or idea; ex. school
- 12. reader's response to the text; emotional adjective
- 15. the first letter of the first word of EVERY sentence