

Medical Laboratory Week

Across

6. A person receiving medical treatment which may include blood products
7. Used in the red cell determination of the ABO blood group and for the absence or presence of antibodies and antigens
8. Reaction observed in tube testing when antibodies and antigens form a complex.
9. Protein substance in the blood that is formed as a response to a foreign antigen.
10. A substance foreign to the body that causes an immune response

Down

1. Laboratory medicine dealing with preparing blood and blood products for transfusion and studies antigen-antibody reactions
2. Used to spin blood tubes down
3. container used for contaminated needles
4. A person who gives blood for transfusion
5. Testing that determines if a donor's blood matches that of a blood recipient