

Name: _____

Date: _____

Nursing Theorist by last name

Across

1. Which theorist is considered the "father of interpersonal psychiatry or interpersonal psychoanalysis"?
3. This theorist says the role of a nurse is to assess a patient's comfort needs and create a nursing care plan to meet those needs
4. This theorist identified three concepts in his theory which are driving forces, restraining forces, and equilibrium.
8. Which theorist believed in a holistic approach to curing illness
11. Which theorist's model is defined as a philosophical approach to the discovery of mental health?
12. This theorist says the goal of nursing is to promote adaptation of the patient during illness and health in all four of the modes.

14. Which Theorist focused on a patient's relationship to stress?
18. Which theorist is known as the "lady with the lamp"?
19. Which theorist has three interacting systems in their theory which are personal, interpersonal, and social
20. Which theorist came up with a theory that had 5 levels of experience?

Down

2. Which theorist's theory focuses on self efficiency and different ways that affect self efficiency?
5. Which theorist has a publication called Introduction to Nursing, published in 1969?
6. Which theorist incorporates the study of cultures to understand both similarities and differences within the variety of patients?

7. This theorist describes health as a state mutually exclusive of illness
9. Which theorist has these five stages in their process: assessment, diagnosis, planning, implementation, and evaluation
10. Which theorist focuses on rehabilitation so the patient can recover more quickly and holistically
13. Whose theory focuses on the importance of increasing the patient's independence to hasten their progress in the hospital?
15. Which theorist's theory has four stages which include the anticipatory stage, the formal stage, the informal stage, and the personal stage?
16. Which theorist focuses on individual uniqueness and their individual needs?
17. Which theorist used school systems and youth crime detention to spread his theories through the community?