

Name: _____ Date: _____ Period: _____

Physiology

Across

3. what type of surgery call for a small incision

9. organism's the ability to sense changes taking place inside or outside its body

11. what things sometimes has Crabs

13. Self-initiated change in an organisms position?

16. chemically and mechanically to breaks down food substances

17. what type of surgery that doesn't break any tissue

18. The study of the function of the body parts?

20. is the removal of wastes that body parts produces as a results of their activities

21. How the body maintains a stable environment regardless of the external condition

Down

1. what type of Surgery calls for cutting through the skin

2. what is H₂O

4. what is an application of force

5. when digestive products pass through the membrane that lines the intestines

6. the changing of absorbed substances into forms that are chemically different

7. The process of making a new individual, as when parents produce a offspring.

8. who was the first person to draw a human spleen

10. Is the process of obtaining oxygen

12. what do you breath

14. Is the movement of substances within the body in body fluids

15. A form of energy that make you sweat

19. An increase of body size

Word Bank

Pressure

Non-invasive

Minimal Invasive

Physiology

Digestion

Invasive

Heat

Responsiveness

Respiration

Homeostasis

Excretion

Movement

oxygen

Food

Absorption

Assimilation

Circulation

Reproduction

Leonardo Di Vinci Growth

water