

Preventive Concepts 1 Crossword

Across

2. The most common form of Hepatitis virus, there is a vaccine available.
 4. Sexually transmitted disease caused by the bacterium Neisseria gonorrhoeae.
 7. The common flu. Spread by respiratory droplets.
 10. This virus normally grows in the cells that line the back of the throat. Characterized by rash, high fever, cough, runny nose, and red, watery eyes.
 11. This is the sexually transmitted disease type of the herpes virus.
 13. This disease lasts for many weeks and is typically found in children and causes spasms of severe coughing, whooping, and cough induced vomiting.

15. This form of Hepatitis can cause life long infection, cirrhosis of the liver, liver failure, and death. There is a vaccine available.

16. This disease causes rash that becomes vesicular within days and then scabs form. Most commonly found in children.
 17. Sexually transmitted disease caused by the bacterium Treponema pallidum.

Down

1. This form of Hepatitis is usually a co-infection with Hepatitis B. It has the same vaccine as Hepatitis B.
 3. Fungal infection in the mouth, on the skin, or vaginal area. More commonly known as a yeast infection.
 5. This is the Herepes virus that causes cold sores.

6. A disease caused by bacteria called Mycobacterium tuberculosis.

8. This form of Hepatitis is transmitted like Hepatitis A and can be found where sewage disposal is inadequate. There is no vaccine.

9. An infection of the salivary glands caused by a fever. symptoms include fever, headache, muscle ache, and swelling of the glands close to the jaw.

12. Type of virus that destroys motor neurons.

14. This form of Hepatitis is spread by contact with the blood of an infected person. There is no vaccine.