

Name: _____

Date: _____

Psychopathology crossword

Across

2. A way of explaining behaviour in terms of what is observable and in terms of learning
5. A form of learning by which behaviour is maintained and shaped by its consequences
8. when someone is seen to not be 'normal'
9. A fear of an object or situation
11. an approach that focuses on how our mental processes affect our behaviour
13. Refers to the process of thinking
15. learning by association

16. occurs when an individual has a less common characteristic, such as a higher or lower than normal IQ

Down

1. A perspective that emphasises the importance of physical processes in the body such as genetic inheritance and neural function
3. Ellis's _ _ _ model
4. A behavioural therapy designed to reduce an unwanted response to a stimulus, such as anxiety
6. Beck proposed that there is 3 types of negative thinking which led to depression, which he called becks.....

7. A behavioural therapy in which a phobic patient is exposed to an extreme form of phobic stimulus in order to reduce anxiety.

10. A mental disorder characterized by a low mood and low energy levels

12. a method for treating mental disorders based on both cognitive and behavioural techniques

14. A condition characterized by obsessions and compulsive behaviour