Across

3. Deceptive love, the "whirlwind affair", as passion fades all that's left is commitment, but without time and intimacy. Its a poor foundation for a relationship
7. The most basic and profound human emotion
9. What we established in infancy with our mother, father, or other care giver
10. Love in which commitment may develop over time
12. The love that dreams are made of, difficult to sustain
15. Emotional and sexual attraction to people of the other sex

16. The first relationship we form outside of our families

17. About 95% of Americans do this at some point in their lives

18. The activities, abilities, and characteristics our culture deems appropriate for us based on whether we're male or female

19. What's encouraged by American social norms for relationships

20. People that are related are _____

Down

1. Natural in intimate relationships

2. Essentially a committed relationship; often begins at romantic love but diminishes into a companionate love

4. Dutiful love, also a poor foundation for a relationship

5. Passion, intimacy, commitment

6. Emotionally and sexual attraction to people of one's own sex

8. "Pairing and finding mates"

11. After a couple has a child they become _____

13. A constant pattern of emotional and sexual attraction based on biological sex; it exists among a continuum that ranges from heterosexuality to homosexuality,

14. Married people have a 50-55% chance of this
