

SBA words

Across

2. Part of a company's profits (earnings) paid periodically to stockholders.
4. A business or association usually formed to manufacture or supply products or services for profit.
7. Typically an investment banker, buys an entire new securities issue from the company or government offering it, and resells the issue as individual stocks or bonds to the public.
8. The amount of money that remains after subtracting the company's expenses from its revenue.
15. A business that is owned by stockholders and has right and responsibilities as if it were a person.
16. A company legally separate from stockholders who own it and the managers who run it.
18. A company that is owned by a person, family, or small group of investors that does not sell shares of stock in the company to the public.
19. Shares of ownership of a company in which the shareholder is guaranteed a dividend if one is declared and whose shares are usually not as volatile as common stock. Preferred stock holders do not have voting rights in company elections and decisions.
21. Shares of a company that do not guarantee a dividend and have more risk and volatility than preferred shares. Common stock holders have the benefit of providing shareholders with the right to vote for the board of directors as well as on issues that come before the board at the annual meeting of shareholders.

23. The stock of a public company is owned and traded by individuals and institutional investors. In contrast, the stock is held by company founders, employees, and sometimes venture capitalists.
24. The chance of losing all or part of an investment.
25. Part of a company's profits (earnings) that it pays as money to stockholders.
26. A company owned and managed by two or more people who share its profits or losses. A partnership is not separate from its owners, who are liable for the company's debts.
27. An announcement appearing in financial publications such as The Wall Street Journal announcing a company's Initial Public Offering (IPO.)

Down

1. A company that is owned by investors who buy shares of stock, partial ownership of the assets of a business, in the corporation usually through one of the stock exchanges.
3. Someone who risks funds by purchasing financial products with the hope the investments will increase in value over time.
5. A company owned and run by one individual who receives its profits or its losses. A proprietorship is not separate from its owner, who is liable for the company debts.
6. A corporation that doesn't sell shares to the public. You cannot buy shares of a private company in the stock market.

9. By law, each publicly held corporation must provide its shareholders with an annual report showing its income and balance sheet. In most cases, it contains not only financial details but also a message from the chairman, a description of the company's operations, and an overview of its achievements.
10. A person who organizes, operates, and assumes the risk for a business venture.
11. Initial Public Offering; the initial sale of stock to the public by investment bankers.
12. The condition of owning stock. The value of a long position is a stock's current share price multiplied by the number of shares owned.
13. If you own common stock in a U.S. corporation, you have the right to vote on company policies and to elect the company's board of directors. You may vote in person at the annual meeting or authorize the board to vote on your behalf using an absentee ballot, or proxy. Which you can submit by mail or, increasingly often, by telephone or over the Internet.
14. Process by which assets of a business are converted to money.
17. An individual or company (including a corporation) that legally owns one shares of stock in a stock company. The shareholders are the owners of a corporation.
20. A type of security that signifies ownership in a corporation and represents a claim to a part
22. Indicates how much and how quickly the value of an investment, market, or market sector changes.