

Name: _____ Date: _____

Safety and Sanitation Principles

- |                                                                                                                  |                                     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1. It is designed to support the lower back while lifting                                                 | A. emergency                 |
| 2. materials are those that are quick to burn                                                             | B. flammable                 |
| 3. all necessary switches on malfunctioning electrical equipment are tagged and locked from use           | C. laceration                |
| 4. is a potential life threatening situation that usually occurs suddenly and unexpectedly                | D. first aid                 |
| 5. involves assisting a person until professional medical help can be provided                            | E. puncture wound            |
| 6. a scrape or minor cut                                                                                  | F. lockout/tagout            |
| 7. is a cut or tear in the skin that can be quite deep                                                    | G. avulsion                  |
| 8. happens when a portion of the skin is partially or completely torn off                                 | H. abrasion                  |
| 9. happens when the skin is pierced with a pointed object, making a deep whole in the skin                | I. occupational back support |
| 10. a series of thrust to the abdomen that can help dislodge something that is stuck in a person's airway | J. Heimlich maneuver         |