

Social Work Practice

Across

3. freedom of choice
 4. this type of system has open boundaries and is open to outside support/help
 6. this perspective is known as the person in environment approach to assessment and intervention
 7. this theory is defined as a whole made up of many interacting parts or subsystems
 10. when first meeting with a client, it is important to review this document

12. i.e. this level of systems looks at policy
 13. this concept is related to systems theory. I.E. when an individual or family attempts to seek balance. This is also known as what?
 14. this concept is associated with systems theory. They can be open or closed

Down

1. this diagram is used as an assessment tool to capture a person within their environment

2. this concept is a major component of systems theory and has to do with goodness of fit
 5. this type of system has rigid boundaries and not open to outside support/help
 8. i.e. this level of systems looks at communities
 9. this perspective is used as a way to NOT focus on deficits but _____
 11. i.e. this level of systems looks at the individual