

Sociology Henslin Chapter 3

Across

2. Understanding is limited to sensory stimuli such as touch and sight
5. Reasoning ability is more complex but not yet capable of complex abstractions
7. everyone experiences six basic emotions: anger, disgust, fear, happiness, sadness, and surprise.
10. abstract thinking
12. children assumed to have been raised by animals, in the wilderness, isolated from humans
13. Amoral, Pre-conventional, conv, post conv
15. the entire human environment, including interaction with others

17. the process by which people learn the characteristics of their group--the knowledge, skills, attitudes, values, norms, and actions thought appropriate for them

18. the intended beneficial consequences of people's actions

19. an individual who significantly influences someone else

Down

1. the process of learning new norms, values, attitudes, and behaviors
3. the stages of our life as we go from birth to death
4. the behaviors and attitudes that a society considers proper for its males and females; masculinity or femininity

6. The ability to use symbols

8. unintended beneficial consequences of people's actions

9. a social condition in which privileges and obligations are given to some but denied to others

11. a term coined by Charles Horton Cooley to refer to the process by which our self develops through internalizing others' reaction to us

14. Freud's term for a balancing force between the id and the demands of society

16. Freud's term for our inborn basic drives