

Sort 35

Across

- 5. following continuously
- 7. take away illegally by force
- 8. to change continually; to move back and forth in waves
- 9. give intellectual, moral, and social instruction to someone; lead them to knowledge
- 11. an outgoing, overtly expressive person
- 13. able to flow easily; no fixed shape
- 16. an informational exchange of ideas by spoken words
- 18. a person who in charge of a train
- 22. something that is the opposite of something else

- 23. make smaller or less in amount, degree, or size; bring someone into lower or weaker state

- 24. the state of having a great deal of money or wealth

Down

- 1. on the act or result of leading in preliminary to the main portion
- 2. able to express oneself easily and articulately
- 3. coming after something in time; following
- 4. exceeding what is necessary; extra; wasteful
- 6. something that takes place after or as a result of an earlier event

- 10. a group that has separated from a larger group (usually religious) that has different beliefs

- 12. cause to change in form, character, or function; a person who has been persuaded to change their belief

- 14. bring about or give rise to make it happen

- 15. an arrival or inflow of large numbers of people, things, or water

- 17. a result or effect of an action or condition

- 19. move backwards; the opposite side

- 20. subtract or take away from a total
- 21. a sensation of whirling and loss of balance

Word Bank

- | | | | | | |
|--------------|---------|-----------|------------|-------------|-------------|
| fluent | reverse | induce | affluence | fluid | superfluous |
| introduction | sect | deduct | sequel | extravert | influx |
| consveration | reduce | convert | educate | inverse | conductor |
| abduct | vertigo | fluctuate | subsequent | consequence | consecutive |