

Name: _____

Date: _____

Stages of Labor

Across

1. During the transition phases, the cervix dilates from _____ to _____ cm and pain becomes _____.

2. What is expelled during the third stage of labor?

8. This stage of labor is considered the recovery period.

10. What type of deceleration is associated with head compression?

11. _____ is when the babies head becomes visible in the vaginal opening.

12. Pushing can begin when the cervix is _____ dilated.

14. This phase of labor is the longest during the first stage.

15. In the 4th stage, BP, fundus checks, and lochia checks should be assessed q _____ minutes for the first 1-2 hours.

Down

3. The deceleration associated with cord compression is?

4. What stage of labor does cervical dilation occur?

5. The fourth stage of labor usually lasts up to _____ hrs or until VS are stable.

6. This deceleration shows placental insufficiency.

7. How many stages of labor are there?

9. 10 cm-birth of infant

13. True or False: During transition phases, it's normal for most pts to experience a high amount of anxiety and fear, which leads them to believe they will not be able to tolerate the process of giving birth.