

Terminology Puzzle

Across

- 3. Data that is non-numeric in nature.
4. A measure of relative standing where the data is divided into one hundred equal sized pieces.
12. This breaks the data set into ten equal sized pieces.
13. The largest minus the smallest values.
14. Data that is numeric in nature.
15. The InterQuartile Range
16. A set of questions asked of people to study a desired subject.

18. Measured or collected information.

19. The science of data analysis.

20. The entire set of things we are studying.

21. A rare or unusual value.

Down

1. A subset of a population.

2. The arithmetic average.

5. A way to collect several "samples" from an original sample, as if it were a population.

6. The average of the squared deviations.

7. A designed and controlled investigation.

8. The number of copies of a specific data value in a sample.

9. The first of these is the median of the first half of an ordered data set.

10. How a data set is "stretched" left of right

11. Breaks the data into ten equal sized pieces.

17. A type of sample where each value is independent and equally likely to be chosen.