

The Best Crossword

Across

5. A vertical member of a timber-framed wall

7. Two pieces forming an angle, or a joint formed between two pieces of wood by cutting bevels of equal angles at the ends of each piece

10. Mr Joinery himself

11. The underside of a part of a building such as the eaves or archway

14. The horizontal part of a step

15. One of a set of parallel sloping beams that form the main structural element of a roof

Down

1. The vertical part of a step

2. The edges of a roof that project beyond the walls

3. A recess or hole, formed in one piece to receive a projection or tenon on the end of another piece

4. To cut a tapered recess that allows the head of a screw to lie flush with a surface

6. A horizontal beam that provides intermediate support for rafters or sheet roofing

8. A short horizontal wooden member between studs

9. The top horizontal member of a wooden frame

12. A strip of wood that covers the ends of rafters and to which external guttering is fixed

13. Liquid – mostly water – contained within cells in a tree or timber. Sap is the means by which dissolved food and salts are moved around the tree