

The Revolutionary War

Across

3. this battle took place on Jan. 3, 1777; follows the battle of Trenton and was another Continental Army success

5. this pamphlet, written by Thomas Paine, inspired colonists to declare and fight for independence

8. this was one reason why Americans were victorious; they were able to communicate easily and were more familiar with the area

9. this document officially ended the war and acknowledged American independence

11. this occurred April 19, 1775 ;this was the first military confrontation of the Revolutionary War

12. this battle took place on Dec. 25, 1776; the British army was caught off guard, and about 900 of them were captured

13. having this united the colonists and made them determined to defeat the British

14. an American general that used strategy to avoid situations that might lead to the Continental Army's destruction

15. this group of colonists remained loyal to Great Britain during the war

Down

1. a British general who used slow-moving tactics which caused lack of British support

2. the last battle of the war; the British were surrounded

4. this is a British military strategy in which they weaken and wait for the surrender of the colonists in a central area (EX: New York)

6. this group of colonists called for independence from Great Britain during the war

7. in this battle, colonists surrounded the British and caused general Burgoyne to surrender; also caused the British to change their strategy

10. this document is significant because it allowed France to back the Continental Army after the Battle of Saratoga