

Topographical Maps

Across

4. They connect points of equal elevation
 7. A long stretch of low lands, commonly formed by waterways
 9. A long line of sloping ground, with higher elevation in only one direction
 10. A low point in the ground or a sinkhole
 11. an area of high ground where the surrounding ground loses elevation in all directions

12. A two-dimensional diagram that describes the landscape in vertical cross-section

Down

1. Are Indicators of a depression on the map
 2. Difference between successive contour lines
 3. A specific type of topographic map that uses colors and shading to show heights and features on the map

5. drop in elevation between two chosen points (feet)

6. the size of a picture, plan, or model of a thing compared to the size of the thing itself
 8. Reference for a given map that includes symbols used on that map or chart and what they represent