

Name: _____

Date: _____

Unit 3 Puzzle

Across

4. The competition of political candidates for public office
 7. The practice of conducting political affairs
 10. Valuing tradition and being cautious about change
 12. Information widely spread to help or harm a person or group
 13. The head position in the USA
 14. To gain new members of a group or organization
 17. A political party in the US. Their main stances and issues to improve are liberal issues.
 18. The different types of media that politics is shared on
 22. The side with a greater number of people
 24. Government policies affecting the whole population
 27. A group or party of people other than the main two parties

28. The combination of the Senate votes and the House of Representative votes

29. To appoint someone for office

30. A system where there are two main parties that dominate the government

Down

1. The ability to attract, interest, and amuse an audience

2. The group of people's right to vote in an election

3. A group with shared interests focusing on one problem

5. To watch over another person or group

6. A political party in the US. They focus on conservative issues

8. The race of running for office, where voting is a part of the process

9. The president's right-hand man. He takes over role of president if the current holder dies. His role is to be head of the Senate.

11. A set of goals supported by a political party or candidate to appeal to the public and gain the majority vote of the people.

15. To determine the value of two different sides

16. The side with fewer people

19. The people who choose the person to be the public office holder

20. A system where the majority vote wins the whole state

21. A group or organization of people with similar political aims, and seek to influence public policies

23. To favor progression in a political sense

25. An opinion on politics that changes how the document is interpreted

26. A political group that is formed by people with similar beliefs that give money to a candidate or party