

Name: _____

Date: _____

Vet 111 part 2

Across

- 4. a bacterial infection of the uterus that causes the uterus to fill with purulent material
- 7. Bacterial Cystitis, UTI
- 8. defined as inflammation of the vagina usually due to micro-organism
- 10. characterized as an increased intraocular pressure (IOP)
- 11. the development of stones in the urinary tract
- 14. an excessive production of thyroid hormones T3 and T4, increasing the metabolic rate of animals with this condition

Word Bank

- Urinary Tract Infection
- Epiphora
- Hypothyroidism
- Hyperthyroidism
- Canine mammary tumors

- 15. inflammation of one or more of the mammary glands associated with an ascending infection via the teat canals

Down

- 1. a collections of conditions associated with the bladder and urethra in cats (FLUTD)
- 2. Pink eye, an inflammation of the conjunctiva of the eye caused by the presence of an irritant or infection
- 3. Addison's disease, adrenal failure will result in a failure to secrete adequate amounts of cortisol and aldosterone
- 5. most common neoplasm in intact female dogs

- 6. a sudden shutdown of nephrons resulting from major kidney damage (ARF)

- 9. an abnormal overflow of tears over the face caused by an obstructed nasolacrimal duct or the overproduction of tears.
- 12. rare in cats, a decrease in thyroid hormone, which results in a reduction in metabolic rate
- 13. a difficult or abnormal birth

- Urolithiasis
- Pyometra
- Hypoadrenocorticism
- Feline Urinary Tract Disease
- Dystocia

- Vaginitis
- Acute renal failure
- Glaucoma
- Mastitis
- Conjunctivitis