

Name: _____ Date: _____

Vivian's Crossword Puzzle

Across

3. While performing a venipuncture, the medical assistant removes the filled tubes, but forgets to remove the tourniquet prior to needle withdrawal. What is most likely to result?

9. The medical assistant collects blood for a test that requires a blood smear. What is the terminology that would indicate that the sample clumped (therefore requiring a redraw)?

11. Capillary blood specimens are typically collected on patients that are extremely _____

12. Which test is drawn in an EDTA tube for the hematology department of the laboratory?

13. Which of the following skin disorders are noncommunicable?

15. When inserting a needle during venipuncture, the bevel should be in which position in relation to the vein?

16. A syringe is preferred over a vacuum collection device when the patients _____ are fragile

17. The phlebotomist should send a specimen collected in a yellow stopper tube with SPS additive to which laboratory department?

Down

1. After a phlebotomy draw, the phlebotomist realizes the tourniquet was on the patient's arm for an extensive length of time. What is the most common complication?

2. Which colored test tube has a glycolytic inhibitor?

4. Which type of additive is present in an EDTA tube?

5. Venipuncture on the foot is performed in the _____ pedis

6. While performing a venipuncture, immediately before removing the needle, the medical assistant should release the _____

7. Since special precautions are needed for patients with Vascular Access Devices, which device is contraindicated for any type of blood draws?

8. When performing a venipuncture on an infant, the amount of blood taken from the infant should be monitored to avoid _____

10. Forceful shaking of blood in an evacuated collection tube will cause which complications?

14. What is the laboratory abbreviation for calcium?