

Week 12

Across

3. Gives support to the flower while the flower is developing from a bud.

6. This is the stalk of the anther.

9. The ovule is like the egg in animals and once fertilization has taken place will become the seed of the plant

10. part of the flower that contain pollen sacs.

Down

1. The stigma, ovary and ovule are known as the _____ .

2. Is covered in a sticky substance that the pollen grains adhere to.

4. Petals are used to attract insects (pollinators) into the flower , they may have guidelines on them and be scented.

5. Protects the flower while the flower is developing from a bud

7. This is where a sugary solution called nectar is held to attract insects

8. This protects the ovule and once fertilization has taken place it will become the fruit