

Name: _____

Date: _____

livestock 1-20

Across

1. How well an animal likes or accepts a feed is referred to as the:

10. Heifers most commonly reach puberty at the average age of:

12. ____ is a measure of the degree of difference between the offspring of a specific bull and the offspring of the average bull of the breed in the trait being measured.

13. Sheep are a major enterprise in the ____ area of the United States.

14. What is an infertile female calf born as a twin to a fertile male calf called?

15. Which vitamin do animals tend to produce enough of so that it does not need to be included as a specific nutrient in their rations?

16. The process of placing sperm in the female reproductive tract by some other means than natural mating is known as:

20. The sudden death of heavily muscled hogs is referred to as:

Down

2. An animal that has extremely straight hind legs is best described as being:

3. The first breed of cattle imported to the United States in the late 1700's was the:

4. Which fat-soluble vitamin is associated with bone development and calcium absorption?

5. The expected yield of a hog with a USDA quality grade of No. 1 is:

6. Which species of livestock reaches puberty based on the season and not the age:

7. Which amino acid listed is first limiting in swine rations?

8. Which polled breed of cattle originated from horned cattle due to a genetic mutation?

9. Fat present in muscle tissue is known as:

11. The removal of the testicles from a male animal is:

17. What do Hampshires, Berkshires, and Polands have in common?

18. A swine nutritional health problem caused by lack of iron in the diet.

19. Anthrax is a disease caused by bacteria that may remain in the soil for ____ years or longer.