

Name: _____ Date: _____ Period: _____

socail studies

Across

3. A climate characterized by COLD TEMPERATURE for a majority of the time during the year.

4. a form of psychotherapy in which the patient receives abrupt and intense, rather than gradual, exposure to a fear-producing situation.

9. an uncomfortably high amount of relative humidity

10. an unusually large sea wave produced by a seaquake or undersea volcanic eruption.

11. a strong wind or storm or strong winds and storms collectively

13. a region or area characterized by a given climate

14. those without extremes of temperature and precipitation

15. the act of precipitating; state of being precipitated.

Down

1. a violent squall or whirlwind of small extent, as one of those occurring during the summer on the west coast of Africa.

2. A climate which is typical of equatorial and tropical regions, i.e., one with continually high temperatures with considerable precipitation, at least during part of the year.

5. a region of the world where there is little precipitation and the air is very dry, according to Maps of the World.

6. a warm ocean current of variable intensity that develops after late December along the coast of Ecuador and Peru and sometimes causes catastrophic weather conditions

7. anything suggesting a violent storm.

8. any large fire that spreads rapidly and is hard to extinguish.

12. a complex biotic community characterized by distinctive plant and animal species and maintained under the climatic conditions of the region, especially such a community that has developed to climax.